

Leona Thomas VP of Operations

Leona has a strong track record for creating business transformation and enablement with companies building focused on growth. Prior to Wylei, Leona founded Enabling Investments, LLC, an executive consulting firm focused on Fortune 500 and large non-profit organizations. Leona has previously served as the Global Transformation Director for Hibu and with CSC's Strategic Management and Consulting Practices. While at CSC, she founded the company's Global REACH Practice and launched CSC's Global Chemical Regulatory and Sustainability Practice. In addition, she led several major transformational initiatives for key clients including launching SEI Investment's eCommerce software as a service (SaaS) platform and their first 10 ecommerce product lines.

Serving on the board of directors, Leona chairs the Strategic Planning Committee for William Way, a Philadelphia LGBTQA Community Center (waygay.org) serving over 70,000 people a year with a staff of 15 and over 400 volunteers. Additionally, she is a member of and serves on the Executive Leadership Council for SIM Women, the national Society for Information Management program (SIM). SIM is the premier network for IT leadership and a community of thought leaders who share experiences, rich intellectual capital, and explore future IT direction.

She earned a bachelor's of science and engineering degree in electrical and computer engineering and an Executive MBA from Drexel University. She also is a member of the Beta Gamma Sigma International Honor Society.

Leona is a member of Drexel Alumnae, AWE (Alliance for Women Entrepreneurs) and Beacon (formerly Greater Philadelphia Senior Executive Group). Leona, an avid jock and hiker and lives in Philadelphia and keeps busy with her immediate and very large, hand-selected family.